every objection of law and fact would be open to the defendant in such suit.

The statute does not provide for a lien against property, nor for summary seizure thereof, nor for interference with the business by injunction, or otherwise; and no execution is permitted except such as would result from any other final judgment of the state court.

No great or irreparable injury can be asserted when the only possible complaint is that a law suit in the state court may result unfavorably to the complainants.

Sections 5 and 11 of the Act may be fairly construed to mean that where a tax is paid under protest no remittance is to be made to the State Treasurer until judicial determination of liability.

The First Amendment of the Federal Constitution imposes no restriction upon the States with reference to abridging the freedom of speech or of the press.

The theory that by effect of the Fourteenth Amendment legislatures of the States are prohibited from passing laws infringing the freedom of the press, finds no support in the jurisprudence of this Court. 1 Cooley's Const. Lim., 8th ed., p. 67, note.

The effect of the second clause of the Fourteenth Amendment was to protect from the hostile legislation of the States, the privileges and immunities of citizens of the United States as distinguished from the privileges and immunities of citizens of the States. To establish a clear and comprehensive definition of this citizenship, the first clause of the Fourteenth Amendment declares that "all persons born or naturalized in the United States and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizen of the United States." See Slaughter House Cases, 16 Wall. 36.

The liberty guaranteed by the Fourteenth Amendment against deprivation without due process of law is the liberty of natural, not of artificial persons. Western Turf Assn. v. Greenberg, 204 U. S. 359. The appellees are cor-
