

TO THE READER.

can not but ether by circumlocution, or by adding the verbe or some worde be vnderstand of them that are not wel practised therein) we haue put it in the text with another kynde of lettre, that it may easely be discerned from the common lettre. As touching the diuision of the verses, we haue followed the Ebrewe examples, which haue so euen from the begynning distinct them. Which thing as it is moste profitable for memorie: so doeth it agre with the best translations, & is moste easie to finde out both by the best Concordances, and also by the cotations which we haue dilygently herein perused and set forth by this starre *. Besides this the principal matters are noted and distincted by this marke ¶. Yea and the argumentes bothe for the booke and for the chapters with the nombre of the verse are added, that by all meanes the reader might be holpen. For the which cause also we haue set ouer the head of euery page some notable worde or sentence which may greatly further aswel for memorie, as for the chief point of the page. And considering how hard a thing it is to vnderstand the holy Scriptures, and what errors, sectes and heresies growe dailie for lacke of the true knollage thereof, and how many are discouraged (as thei pretend) because thei can not atteine to the true and simple meaning of the same, we haue also indeuored bothe by the dilygent reading of the best commentaries, and also by the conference with the godly and learned brethren, to gather brief annotations vpon all the hard places, aswel for the vnderstanding of suche wordes as are obscure, and for the declaratiō of the text, as for the application of the same as may moste apperteine to Gods glorie and the edification of his Church. Forthermore whereas certeyne places in the bookes of Moses, of the Kings and Ezekiel semed so darke that by no description thei colde be made easie to the simple reader, we haue so set them forth with figures and notes for the ful declaration thereof, that thei which can not by iudgement, being holpen by the annotations noted by the letters a b c. &c. atteyn thereunto, yet by the perspectiue, and as it were by the eye may sufficiently knowe the true meaning of all suche places. Whereunto also we haue added certeyne mappes of Cosmographie which necessarily serue for the perfect vnderstanding and memorie of diuers places and countreys, partely described, and partely by occasion touched, bothe in the olde and newe Testament. Finally that nothing might lacke which might be bought by labors, for the increase of knowlage and fortherance of Gods glorie, we haue adioyned two moste profitable tables, the one seruing for the interpretation of the Ebrewe names: and the other conteyning all the chiefe and principal matters of the whole Bible: so that nothing (as we trust) that any colde iustly desire, is omitted. Therefore, as brethren that are partakers of the same hope and saluation with vs, we beseeche you, that this riche perle and inestimable treasure may not be offred in vayne, but as sent from God to the people of God, for the increase of his kingdome, the comfort of his Church, and discharge of our conscience, whome it hath pleased him to raise vp for this purpose, so you wolde willingly receyue the worde of God, earnestly studie it and in all your life practise it, that you may now appeare in dede to be the people of God, not walking any more according to this worlde, but in the frutes of the Spirit, that God in vs may be fully glorified through Christ Iesus our Lord, who lyueth and reigneth for euer. Amen. From Geneva, 10. April. 1560.

THE FIRST BOKE OF

Moses, called * Genesis.

THE ARGUMENT.

MOSE in effect declareth the things, which are here chiefly to be considered: First, that the worlde & all things therein were created by God, & that man being placed in this great tabernacle of the worlde to beholde Gods wonderful workes, & to praise his Name for the infinite graces, wherewith he had endued him, fel willingly from God through disobedience: who yet for his owne mercies sake restored him to life, & confirmed him in the same by his promes of Christ to come, by whome he shulde overcome Satan, death and hel. Secondely, that the wicked, vnmindful of Gods moste excellent benefites, remained stil in their wickednes, & so falling moste horribly from sinne to sinne, prouoked God (who by his preachers called them continually to repentance) at length to destroye the whole worlde. Thirdly, he assureth vs by the exampls of Abraham, Isaac, Iacob & the rest of the Patriarkes, that his mercies neuer faile them; whome he chuseth to be his Church, and to professe his Name in earth, but in all their afflictions and persecutions he euer assisteth them, sendeth comforte, & deliuereth them. And because the beginning, increase, preseruacion and successe thereof might be onely attributed to God, Moses sheweth by the examples of Cain, Ishmael, Esau and others, which were noble in mans iudgement, that this Church dependeth not on the estimation and nobilitie of the worlde: and also by the fewenes of them, which haue at all times worshipped him purely according to his worde, that it standeth not in the multitude, but in the poore and despised, in the smale flocke and litle number, that man in his wisdom might be confounded, & the Name of God euer more praised.

CHAP. I.

1 God created the heauen & the earth, 2 The light & the darkenes, 3 The firmament. 4 He separateth the water from the earth 5 He createth the sunne, the moone, & the starres. 6 He createth the fish, birdes, beastes. 7 He createth man and giueth him rule ouer all creatures, 8 And prouideth nouriture for man and beast.

IN THE beginning * God created y heauen and the earth. And the earth was without forme & voyde, and darkenes was vpon the depe, & the Spirit of God moued vpon the waters. Then God said, * Let there be light: and there was light. And God sawe y light that it was good, and God separated the light from the darkenes. And God called the light, Day, and the darkenes, he called Night. || So the euenig and the morning were the first day. ¶ Againe God said, * Let there be a firmament in the middes of the waters: and let it separate the waters from the waters. Then God made the firmament, & parted the waters, which were vnder the firmament, from the waters which were above the firmament, and it was so. And God called the firmament, Heauen. || So the euenig and the morning were the seconde day. ¶ God said againe, * Let the waters vnder the heauē be gathered into one place, & let the drye land appeare, and it was so. And God called the drye land, Earth, & he called y gathering together of the waters, Seas: & God sawe that it was good. Then God said, * Let the earth budde forthe the budde of the herbe, that sedeth sede, the fruteful tre, w beareth frute according to his kinde, which maie haue his sede in it self vpon the earth. & it was so. And the earth broght forth the budde of the herbe, that sedeth sede accordig to his kinde, also the tre that yeldeth frute, w hathe his sede in it selfe according to his kinde: & God sawe that it was good. || So the euenig and the morning were the third daie. ¶ And God said, * Let there be lightes in the firmament of the heauen, to separate the daie from the night, & let them be for signes, and for seasons, and for daies and yerres. And let them be for lightes in the firmament of the heauen to giue light vpon the earth, and it was so. God then made two great lightes: the greater light to rule the daie, & the lesse light to rule y night: he made also y starres. And God set them in the firmament of the heauen, to shine vpon the earth, And to rule in the daie, & in the night, and to separate the light from the darkenes: and God sawe that it was good. || So the euenig and the morning were the fourth daie. Afterwarde God said, Let the waters bring forth in abundāce euerie creeping thing that hath life: & let the soule flie vpon the earth in the open firmament of the heauen. Then God created the great whales, & euerie thing liuing & mouing, w the waters broght forth in abundāce, accordig to their kinde, & euerie feathered soule according to his kinde: & God sawe that it was good.

* This worde signifieth the beginning and generation of the creature.

i This sentence is so oft repeated, to signifye y God made all his creatures to serue to his glorie, & to the profit of man: but for sinne they were accursed, yet to y elect, by Christ they are restored & serue to their welth.

27 ¶ Thus God created the man in his image: in the image of God created he him: he created them male and female.

28 And God blessed them, and God said to them, ¶ Bring forth the frute and multiplie, and fil the earth, and subdue it, and rule ouer the fish of the sea and ouer the foule of the heauen, & ouer euerie beast that moueth vpon the earth.

29 And God said, Beholde, I haue giuen vnto you euerie herbe bearing sēde, which is vpon all the earth, & euerie tre, wherein is the frute of a tre bearing sēde: that shalbe to you for meat.

30 Likewise to euerie beast of the earth, and to euerie foule of the heauen, & to euerie thing that moueth vpon the earth, which hath life in it selfe, euerie grene herbe shalbe for meat. and it was so.

31 ¶ And God sawe all that he had made, & lo, it was very good. ¶ So the euening and the morning were the sixt day.

CHAP. II

1 God resteth the seuenth day, and sanctifieth it. 15 He setteth man in the garden. 22 He createth the womā. 29 Marriage is ordeined.

1 THUS the heauens and the earth were finished, & all the holte of them.

2 For in the seuenth day God ended his worke which he had made, & the seuenth daye he rested from all his worke, which he had made.

3 So God blessed the seuenth day, & sanctified it, because that in it he had rested from all his worke, which God had created and made.

4 ¶ These are the generacions of the heauens & of the earth, when they were created, in the day that the Lord God made the earth and the heauens,

5 And euerie plant of the field, before it was in the earth, and euerie herbe of the field, before it grewe: for the Lord God had not caused it to raine vpo the earth,

6 But a myst went vp from the earth, and watred all the earth.

7 ¶ The Lord God also made the mā of the dust of the grounde, and breathed in his face breath of life, and the man was a liuing soule.

8 And the Lord God plāted a garden Eastwarde in Eden, and there he put the man whome he had made.

9 (For out of the grounde made the Lord God to growe euerie tre pleasant to the sight, and good for meat: the tre of life also in the middes of the garden, and the tre of knowledge of good and of euil.

10 And out of Eden went a riuer to water the garden, and from thence it was deuided, and became into foure heades.

11 The name of one is Pishon: the same compasseth the whole land of Hauilāh, where is golde.

12 And the golde of that land is good: there is also bdellium, and the onix stone.

13 And the name of the secōde riuer is Gihon: the same compasseth the whole land of Cush.

14 The name also of y third riuer is Hiddekel: this goeth towarde the Eastside of Asshur: and the fourth riuer is Perāth).

15 ¶ Then the Lord God toke the man, and put him into the garden of Eden, that he might dresse it and kepe it.

16 And the Lord God commanded the man, saying, Thou shalt eat frely of euerie tre of the garden, 17 But as touching the tre of knowledge of good and euil, thou shalt not eat of it: for whensoever thou eatest thereof, thou shalt dye the death.

18 Also the Lord God said, It is not good that the man shulde be him selfe alone: I wil make him an helpe more for him.

19 So the Lord God formed of the earth euerie beast of the field, and euerie foule of the heauen, & broght them vnto the mā to se how he wolde call the: for howsoever the man named the liuing creature, so was the name thereof.

20 The man therefore gaue names vnto all cattel, and to the foule of the heauen, and to euerie beast of the field: but for Adam founde he not an helpe more for him.

21 ¶ Therefore the Lord God caused an heauie slepe to fall vpon the man: & whiles he slept, he toke one of his rybbes and closed vp the flesh in steade thereof.

22 And the rybbe which the Lord God had taken from the man, made he a woman, and broght her to the man.

For before Adam entered, all things were honest and comely.

THE SITUATION OF THE GARDEN OF EDEN.

Because mention is made in the tenth verse of this seconde chapter of the river that watered the garden, we muste note that Euphrates and Tygris called in e brew, Perath and Haddikel; were called but one river where they ioined together, els they had foure heades: that is, two as their springs, & two where they fell into the Persian sea. In this countrye and moste plentiful land Adam dwelt, and this was called Paradise: that is, a garden of pleasure, because of the frutesfulness and abundance thereof. And whereas it is said that Pishon compasseth the land of Haulah, it is meant of Tygris, which in some place, as it passed by diuers places, was called by sundry names, as some time Diglitro, in other places Pasitigris, & of some Phasin or Pishon. Likewise Euphrates towarde the countrye of Cush or Ethiopia, or Arabia was called Gihon. So that Tygris and Euphrates (which were but two rivers, and some time when they ioined together, were called after one name) were according to diuers places called by these foure names, so that they might seeme to haue bene foure diuers rivers.

CHAP. III.

Now the serpent was more subtil then any beast of the field, which the Lord God had made: and he said to the woman, Yea, hath God in dede said, Ye shall not eat of euery tree of the garden? And the woman said vnto the serpent, We eat of the frute of the trees of the garden, But of the frute of the tree, which is in the middes of the garden, God hath said, Ye shall not eat of it, neither shall ye touche it, lest ye dye.

4 Then the serpent said to the woman, Ye shall not dye at all, But God doth knowe, that when ye shall eat thereof, your eyes shall be opened, & ye shall be as gods, knowing good and euil. So the woman (seeing that the tree was good for meat, and that it was pleasant to the eyes, & a tree to be desired to get knowledge) toke of the frute thereof, and did eat, and gaue also to her husband with her, and he did eat.

7 Then the eyes of them both were opened, & they knewe that they were naked, and they sewed fig tree leaues together, and made them selues breeches.

17 ¶ Also to Adām he said, Because thou hast obeyed the voyce of thy wife, and hast eaten of the tre (whereof I comāded thee, saying, Thou shalt not eat of it) cursed is the earth for thy sake: in sorowe shalt thou eat of it all the dayes of thy life.

¶ Afterwarde the man knewe Heuāh his wife, which conceiued & bare Káin, & said, I haue obtained a man by the Lord. And againe she brought forth his brother Hábel, and Hábel was a keeper of shepe, & Káin was a tiller of the grounde.

¶ And in processe of time it came to passe, that Káin brought an oblation vnto the Lord of the frute of the grounde.

¶ And Hábel also him selfe brought of the first frutes of his shepe, and of the fat of them, and the Lord had respect vnto Hábel, and to his offering,

5 But vnto Káin and to his offering he had no regarde: wherefore Káin was exceeding wroth, & his countenance fel downe.

6 Then the Lord said vnto Káin, Why art thou wroth? and why is thy countenance cast downe?

7 If thou do wel, shalt thou not be accepted? and if thou doest not wel, sinne lieth at the dore: also vnto thee his desire shal be subiect, and thou shalt rule ouer him.

8 ¶ Then Káin spake to Hábel his brother. And when they were in the field, Káin rose vp against Hábel his brother, and slewe him.

9 Then the Lord said vnto Káin, Where is Hábel thy brother? Who answered, I can not tel. Am I my brothers keeper?

10 Againē he said, What hast thou done? the voyce of thy brothers blood cryeth vnto me from the grounde.

11 Now therefore thou art cursed fro the earth, which hath opened her mouth to receiue thy brothers blood from thine hand.

12 When thou shalt til the grounde, it shal not henceforth yelde vnto thee her strength: a vagabonde and a rennegate shalt thou be in the earth.

13 Then Káin said to the Lord, My punishment is greater, then I can beare.

14 Beholde, thou hast cast me out this day from the earth, and from thy face shal I be hid, and shal be a vagabonde and a rennegate in the earth, & whosoever findeth me, shal slaye me.

15 Then the Lord said vnto him, Douteles whosoever slayeth Káin, he shal be punished seven folde. And the Lord set a marke vpon Káin, lest anie man finding him shulde kil him.

¶ A visible signe of Gods iudgement that others shulde feare.

a Many names, the state of marriage, & Gods blessing were not utterly abolished through sinne, but the quality or condition thereof was changed.

b That is, according to the Lords promise, as chap. 3. 15. some read, To the Lord, as reioycing for sonne, & she had borne, whom she wolde offer to the Lord as the first frutes of her birth.

c This declarereth that the father instructed his childrē in knowledge of God, and also how God gaue the sacrifices to signifye their saluatiō: albeit they were destitute of the sacrament of the tre of life.

d Because he was an hypocrite and offered onely for an outward shew without sinceritie of heart.

e Bothe thou and thy sacrifice shal be acceptable to me.

f Sinne shal still torment thy conscience.

g The dignitie of the first borne is giuen to Káin ouer Hábel.

ind. 11. h This is the nature of the reprobate who thei are reproued of their hypocrisie, eue to neglect God and despise him.

i God reuenge the wrongs of his Saints, though none can plaine: for the iniquitie it selfe cryeth for vengeance.

k The earth shal be a witness against thee which mercifully receiued that blood, which thou most cruelly shedd.

l Thou shalt neuer haue rest: for thine heart shal be in continual feare & care.

m He burdeneth God as a cruel iudge.

17 Káin also knewe his wife, which cōceiued and bare Henóch: and he buylt a citie and called the name of the citie by the name of his sonne, Henóch.

18 And to Henóch was borne Irád, and Irád begate Mehuiáel, and Mehuiáel begate Methusháel, and Methusháel begate Láméch.

19 ¶ And Láméch toke to him two wiues: the name of the one was Adáh, and the name of the other Zilláh.

20 And Adáh bare Iabál, who was the father of suche as dwel in the tentes, and of suche as haue cattel.

21 And his brothers name was Iubál, who was the father of all that playe on the harpe and organes.

22 And Zilláh also bare Tubal-káin, who wrought cunningly euerie crafte of brasle and of yron: and the sister of Tubal-káin was Naamáh.

23 Then Láméch said vnto his wiues Adáh and Zilláh, Heare my voyce, ye wiues of Láméch: hearken vnto my speche: for I wolde slaye a man in my woude, & a yong man in mine hurt.

24 If Káin shalbe auenged seuen folde, truly Láméch, seuentie times seuen folde.

25 ¶ And Adám knewe his wife againe, and she bare a sonne, and she called his name Sheth: for God, said she, hath appointed me another sede for Hábel, because Káin slewe him.

26 And to the same Sheth also there was borne a sonne, and he called his name Enósh. Then began men to call vpon the Name of the Lord.

The chief cause of long life in the first age was the multiplicatiō of mankind that accordig to Gods commandement at the beginning the worlde might be increased with people, which might vniuersally praise his Name.

Ecd. 44. 11.
Obt. 11. 5.

That is, he led an vpright & godlie life.

To shewe there was a better life prepared, & to be a testimonie of the immortalitye of soules & bodies. As to inquire where he became, is mere curiositie.

Láméch had respect to the promes, Chap. 3. 15. and desired to see the deliuerer, & shulde be sent, & yet sawe but a figure thereof. he also spake this by the Spirit of prophetic, because Nóah deliuered the Church, and preferred it by his obedience.
